1 I've got a part-time job in a café with a friend of mine, but she gets more money than me because she's 11 months older. It isn't fair. We do the same things, clearing tables, sweeping the floor, etc. In fact, I think I'm more hard-working than her. What should I do?

2 I'm a member of a swimming club and I train five times a week. Two sessions are before school, from 5.30-7am! I'm always really tired on those days and I keep falling asleep in class. My marks are getting worse. I don't know what to do.

3 I'm 15 and I love going out at the weekend, but places like the cinema or the ice rink are really expensive. I get pocket money, but it isn't enough. You have to be 16 to work in a shop and I can't work with animals because I'm allergic to them. Have you got any tips?

A There isn't much you can do. Your employer is allowed to decide their rates of pay and, until you're 18, they can vary depending on age. You could look for a better-paid job.

B People your age are allowed to babysit or do gardening jobs. You should make a leaflet about yourself and what you want to do. Then you should deliver it to people in your neighbourhood. Don't forget to put your contact details on it and your rates of pay.

C To get a job or go to university, you need to study hard and pass your exams. Your free-time activities shouldn't affect your education. You should talk to your trainer. You shouldn't stop completely, but are you allowed to have a break?
